

INPUT CAPITAL CORP. MONTHLY UPDATE - JANUARY 2014

02/03/2014

REGINA, Feb. 3, 2014 /CNW/ - Input Capital Corp. ("Input") (TSX Venture Exchange: INP) is releasing its monthly update for January 2014 summarizing canola deliveries and the acquisition of new multi-year canola streams.

Input continues to make canola deliveries despite the significant backlog in the grain handling and transportation system. The record Canadian harvest of 2013 and increasing demand for railcars from the oil industry has temporarily overloaded the rail lines in western Canada.

"We are in the midst of an unusual dynamic," said President and CEO Doug Emsley. "Export terminals are at low inventory levels due to strong end-used demand for our products while country elevators are at the limit of their working capacity. The railway system is struggling to keep up and this has resulted in Input seeing delays to its production being called in for delivery. We are currently delivering against our December contracts and could see the timing of our deliveries extend beyond March 31 and into our next fiscal year."

Gord Nystuen, Vice-President of Market Development added, "The plugged rail lines have also led to a significant decrease in net prices being realized by farmers across the Prairies. Our marketing plan has insulated us from this low price environment, having locked in net prices early in the season."

Input now expects to receive 18,297 tonnes of canola from the 2013 growing season.

As streaming contracts are finalized, they will be summarized in these monthly updates.
